Multiple bombings kill 37, wound 86 in Baghdad

Baghdad

A series of bombings in the Iraqi capital today killed more than three dozen people hours before the city's longtime curfew was set to come to an end.

The deadliest attack happened in the New Baghdad section of the city. Police officials said a suicide bomber targeted a street filled with hardware stores, killing 22 people and wounding at least 45.

The second attack took place shortly afterward in central Baghdad's popular Shorja market. Police said two devices detonated 25 meters apart from one another, killing at least 11 people and wounding 26.

Also, at the Abu Cheer market on a Shiite block of southwestern Baghdad, at least four people were killed and 15 wounded when a bomb detonated outside an outdoor food market.

There has been no claim for any of the attacks thus far. Hospital officials confirmed the casualties. All officials spoke anonymously as they are not authorised to brief the media.

Iraqis clean up the site of a suicide bombing that targeted a street filled with hardware stores in the neighborhood of New Baghdad on Saturday. AP/PTI

Merkel leads last chance Ukraine peace drive

Munich

German Chancellor Angela Merkel on Saturday pushed a new peace bid to end the Ukraine conflict, warning that sending weapons to government forces fighting pro-Russian rebels would not stop the bloodshed.

Fresh from overnight talks in Moscow with French President Francois Hollande to thrash out a new peace plan, Merkel said success was far from assured but it was essential to try.

"It is uncertain whether it will lead to success but from my point of view and that of the French president it is definitely worth trying," she told the Munich Security Conference (MSC).

"I believe we owe that much to those who are affected in Ukraine." Europe had had enough of war, the chancellor said, blaming Russia for breaching the international norms which had preserved peace in Europe for so many years.

Hollande for his part said that the Franco-German plan was "one of the last chances" to stop the 10-month-old conflict that has claimed some 5,400 lives.

"If we fail to find a lasting peace agreement, we know the scenario perfectly well — it has a name, it is called war," he said.

Time is pressing to find a solution to the crisis before it turns into a major east-west confrontation, as recent gains by the Russian-backed and increasingly well-armed rebels drive calls for the west to supply weapons to Kiev.

Airstrike kills US hostage: IS

Beirut

Islamic State extremists claimed that an American woman held hostage by the group has been killed in a Jordanian airstrike in northern Syria, but the government of Jordan dismissed the statement as "criminal propaganda" and the US said it had not seen any evidence to corroborate the report.

The woman was identified as Kayla Jean Mueller, an American who went to Syria to do aid work, but there was no independent verification of the militants' claim. The statement appeared on a militant website commonly used by the group and was also distributed by Islamic State-affiliated Twitter users.

The 26-year-old Mueller, of Prescott, Arizona, is the only known remaining US hostage held by the Islamic State group.

A 2007 article about Mueller from the same newspaper said she was a student at Northern Arizona University and was active in the Save Darfur Coalition.

A statement from the office of Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz, said Mueller graduated in 2009 and had worked to help people in need in India, Israel, the Palestinian territories and in Arizona.

Blogger pays $29,000 to Singapore PM in defamation case

Singapore

A blogger has paid 29,000 dollars in costs for court proceedings to Singapore Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong after the premier won a defamation case against him.

The High Court last month had ordered blogger Roy Ngerng to pay Lee the hefty amount in total costs for court proceedings up until the summary judgement issued in November involving the defamation case.

The summary judgement deemed he had defamed Lee through blog posts alleging misappropriation of money placed in the Central Provident Fund, a scheme of workers-employers' contribution.

Ngerng missed two deadlines of January 29 and February 2 to make the payment. The SGD 29,000 is for legal fees and related expenses incurred by Lee in the case.

It does not include the damages to be awarded, which the High Court will assess at a later date. Ngerng was sued over an article posted on his blog, alleging that the Prime Minister had misappropriated money paid by Singaporeans to the CPF.

Divers find crashed AirAsia co-pilot's body?

Jakarta

Indonesian divers have found a body believed to be the French co-pilot who was steering an AirAsia plane when it crashed in December with 162 people on-board, an official said on Saturday.

Coordinator of the search and rescue effort S B Supriyadi said the body was retrieved from the front part of the fuselage during a search operation on Friday.

"It is likely the body of the French co-pilot, wearing uniform with three stripes on (the) shoulder," he told AFP, adding that the body is still being held onboard the Pacitan warship before being taken to land.

A formal confirmation will be given after the Disaster Victims Identification (DVI) team finish identifying the body, which is in poor condition, Supriyadi said.

Indonesian investigators last month said French co-pilot Remi Plesel was flying the plane before it crashed, rather than Captain Iriananto, an experienced former fighter pilot.

Flight QZ8501 went down in stormy weather on December 28 in the Java sea during what was supposed to be a short trip from the Indonesian city of Surabaya to Singapore.
